Effective Leadership and Process Improvement Explored in Upcoming Emerging Leaders Communication Symposium

Indianapolis, IN – The AMBA Emerging Leaders Network has launched its 2021 Communication Symposium, a half-day virtual event where attendees will study business-impacting communication techniques and their practical application in the workplace.

During this session, up-and-coming leaders will study specific techniques in listening, communication and conflict management that will enable professionals in emerging leadership roles to identify process improvements, reduce inefficiencies and utilize the tools needed by leaders to successfully drive organizational change and bottom-line impact.

Facilitator Lowell Applebaum will lead attendees through the practice and application of specific methodologies, including:

- Listening tactics designed to minimize conflict and clarify peer communication
- Conversation strategies to avoid conflict, identify process inefficiencies and explore business opportunities
- Decision-making methods to help align goals with a balance of risk and autonomy throughout a department
- Peer discussion on workplace challenges and shared solutions

The 2021 AMBA Emerging Leaders Communication Symposium will be held on August 18, 2021, from 9AM – 12PM EST. Cost $79/AMBA member. A “conference room rate” also has been introduced for companies interested in registering 3+ employees. To register, visit AMBA.org/Events/ or contact Rachael Pfenninger at rpfenninger@amba.org.

The AMBA Emerging Leader Network and the events it offers to 40-and-under employees is an exclusive benefit to AMBA member companies. Interested in getting involved? Contact Rachael Pfenninger at rpfenninger@amba.org to try out an event.
